

EHHF 2016

BERNE, 19-20 MAY 2016

«Conservation is increasingly geared towards preserving and enhancing a whole cultural landscape rather than a isolated site, and also becoming more people-centred. Old approaches sought to protect heritage by isolating it from daily life. New approaches focus on making it fully part of the local community. Sites are given a second life and meaning that speak to contemporary needs and concerns.»

European Commission, «Towards an integrated approach to cultural heritage for Europe», 22-07-2014
