Research Background

2005 'Faro' convention on the values of cultural heritage for society:

"Cultural heritage is a group of resources inherited from the past which people identify, independently of ownership, as a reflection and expression of their constantly evolving values, beliefs, knowledge and traditions."

Considers the value of heritage, based on the idea that knowledge and use of heritage form part of every citizen's right to participate in cultural life as defined in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights

...convinced of the need to involve everyone in society in the ongoing process of defining and managing cultural heritage."

"Recognising the need to put people and human values at the centre of an enlarged and cross-disciplinary concept of cultural heritage."

What is cultural heritage, theory and practice?

Theory:

Academics interested in critical study; looking for meaning and relevance

Practice:

Heritage administrators working to handle, manage, assist and/or create policy
